

S4DSQU1D

squ1d.moe/s4dsqu1d

IdOL AU1

INFERNA

ALL CHARACTERS ARE CONSENTING, ADULT ACTORS PLAYING A ROLE

THE FALL OF an IDOL

-THE STORY SO FAR-

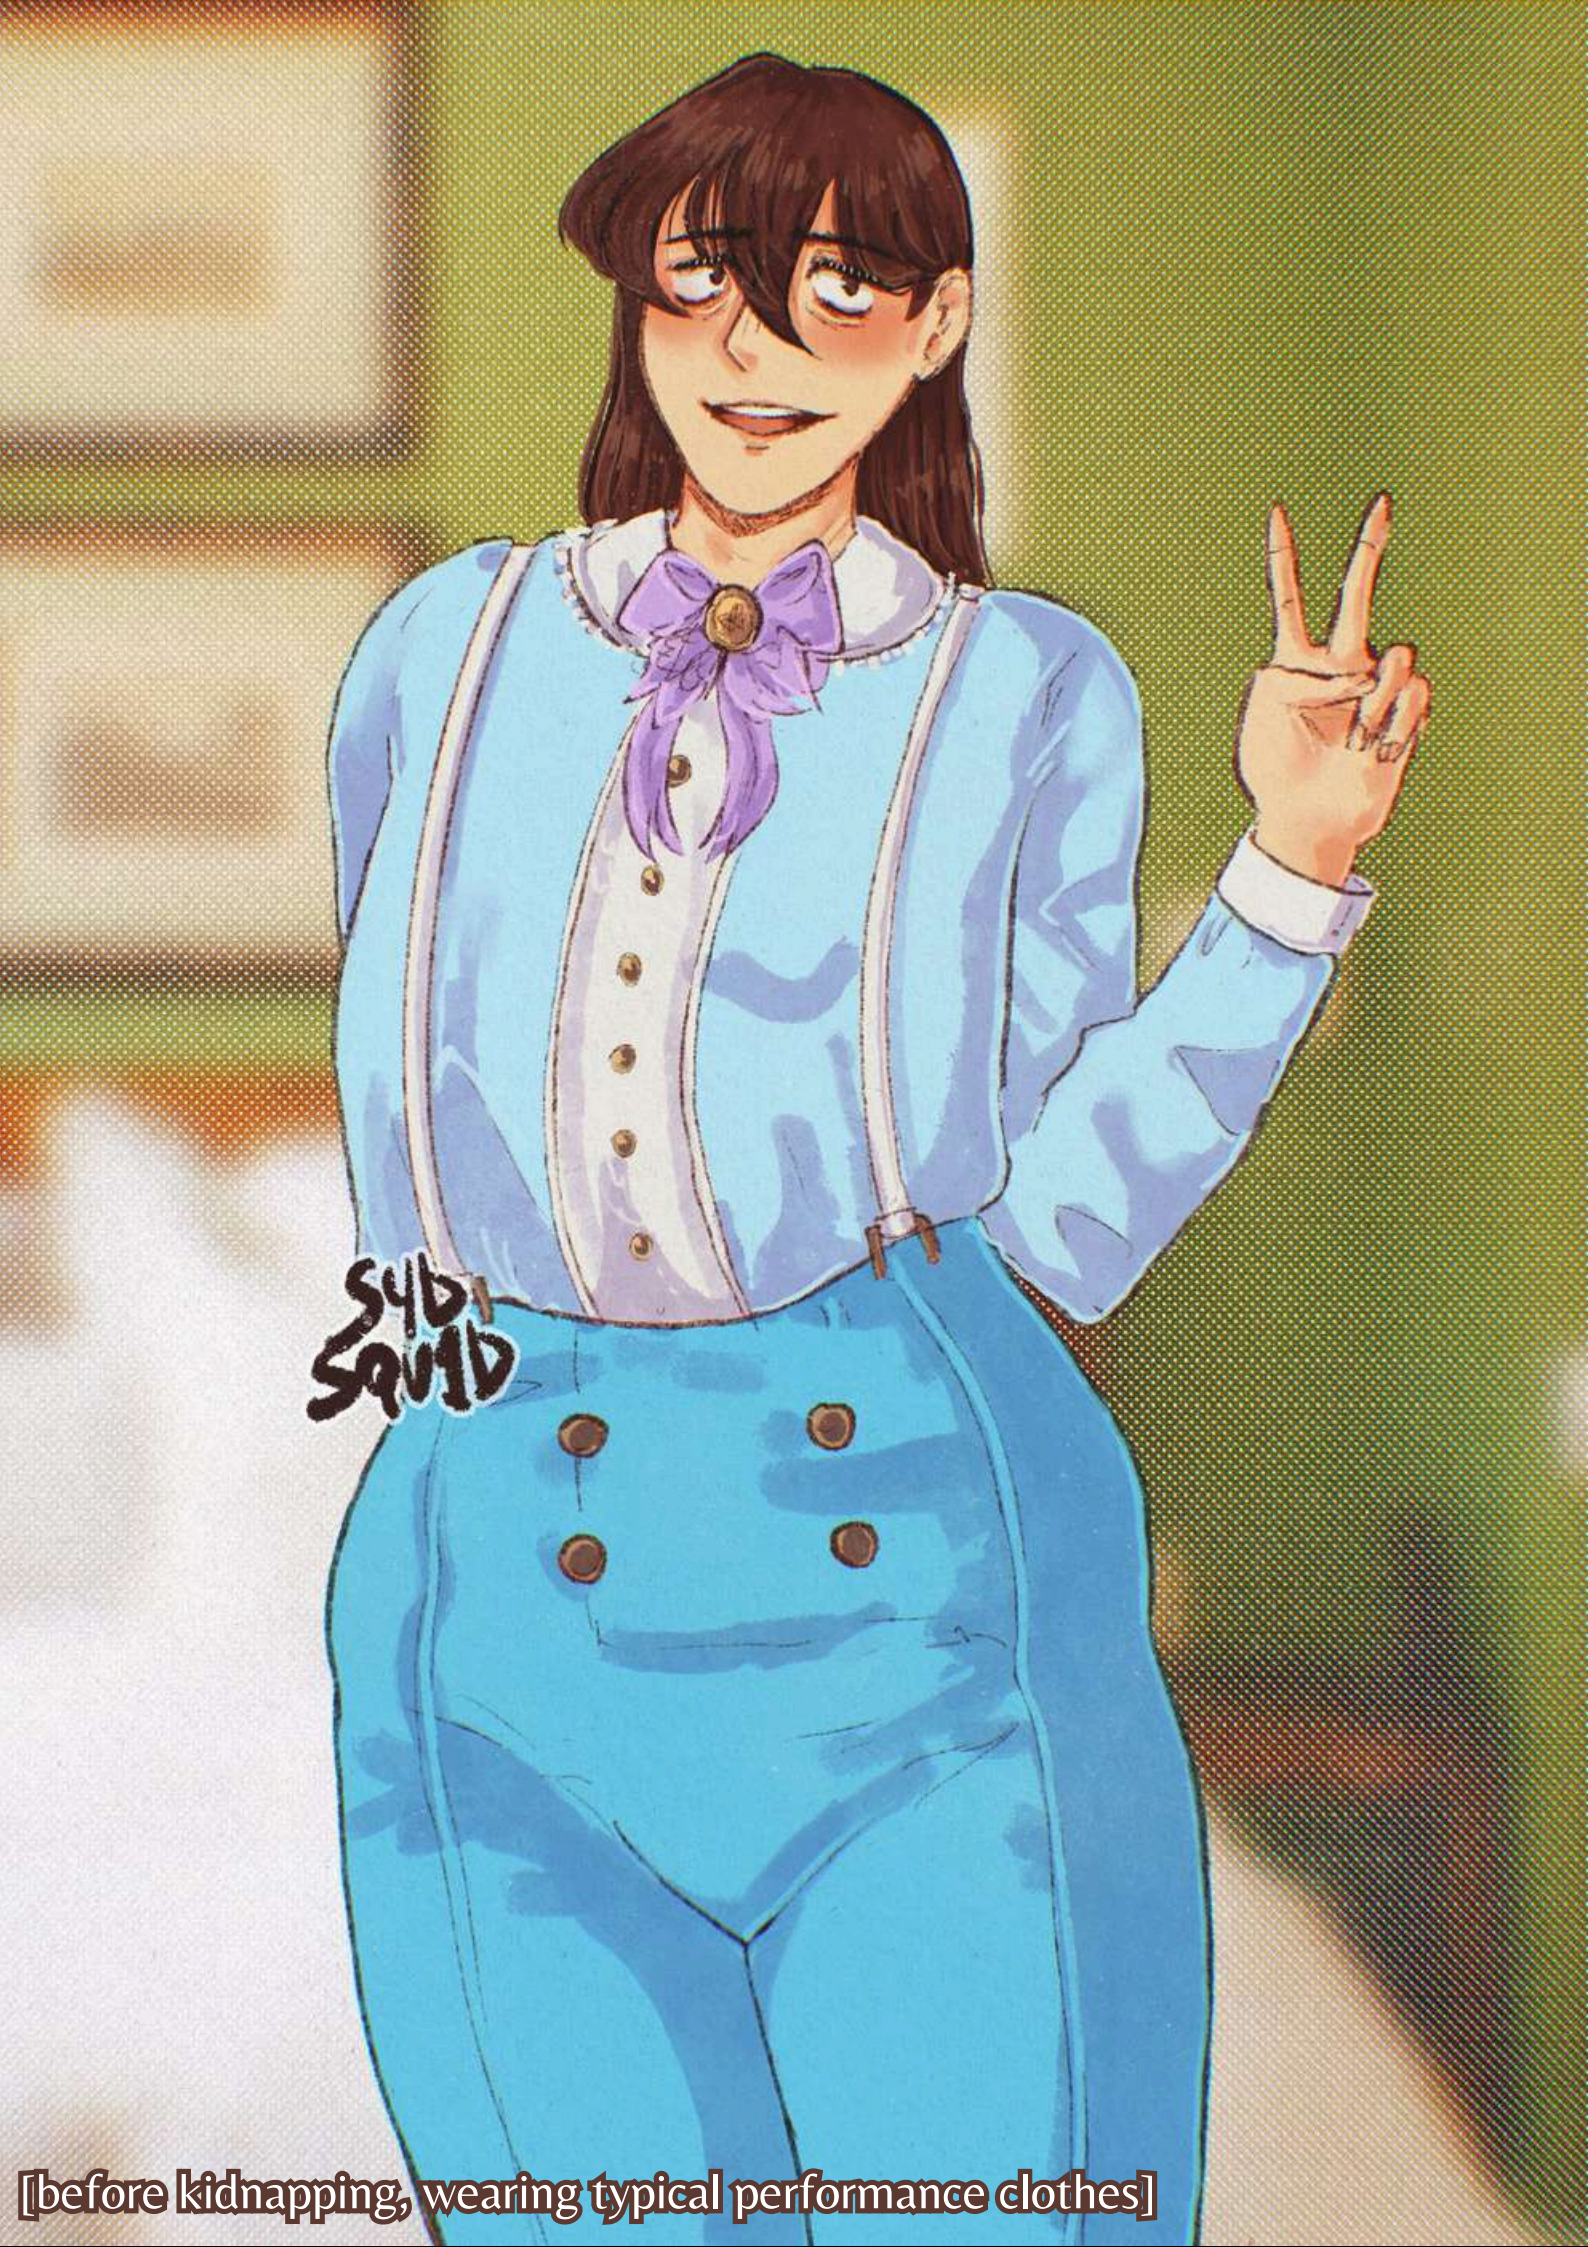

Everything on this book is 100% fictional, no living being (human or otherwise) was harmed when drawing or writing these situations. All characters are over 18 and none of them are based off any real person. Do not ever try to reproduce any of the things depicted on this page in real life. The immoral acts and/or dialogue of these fictional characters are not a representation of the author's actual beliefs.

IF YOU THINK ANY OF THE THEMES DESCRIBED BELOW WILL CAUSE YOU ANY LEVEL OF DISTRESS, PLEASE DO NOT READ IT

CONTENT WARNINGS:

Fictional depictions of:

noncon | brainwashing | kidnapping | blackmail | conversion therapy | detrans | forcefem | misogyny |
tradwifcation | clit nullification | kidnapping | tmpreg | public exposure | humiliation | general despair |
legal trapping | pee drinking

SYD SAVID

[before kidnapping, wearing typical performance clothes]

Before being kidnapped and having his career and life ruined, Soleil used to be a sort of idol. The whole thing began when he was pretty young and, at that time, had yet to figure out his transness.

He started by just posting videos online and live streaming, but before long, he was doing live performances regularly. He has never been extremely famous, but he had a pretty decent fanbase and wasn't exactly struggling too much.

That changed when, soon after turning 19, he decided to publicly come out. The whole ordeal went a bit viral and, in the end, his numbers almost tripled. It was kinda divisive but most of the people who either had been following him or just stumbled upon him due to the controversy were very supportive and their messages drowned out the hate from the disgruntled ones.

Most of it, at least.

Of course, aside from the typical hate and troll comments, there were also the extremely obsessed, but equally bigoted ex-"fans" who seemed completely obsessed with being vile human beings. Their behavior came across extremely entitled and it frankly scared Sol at times.

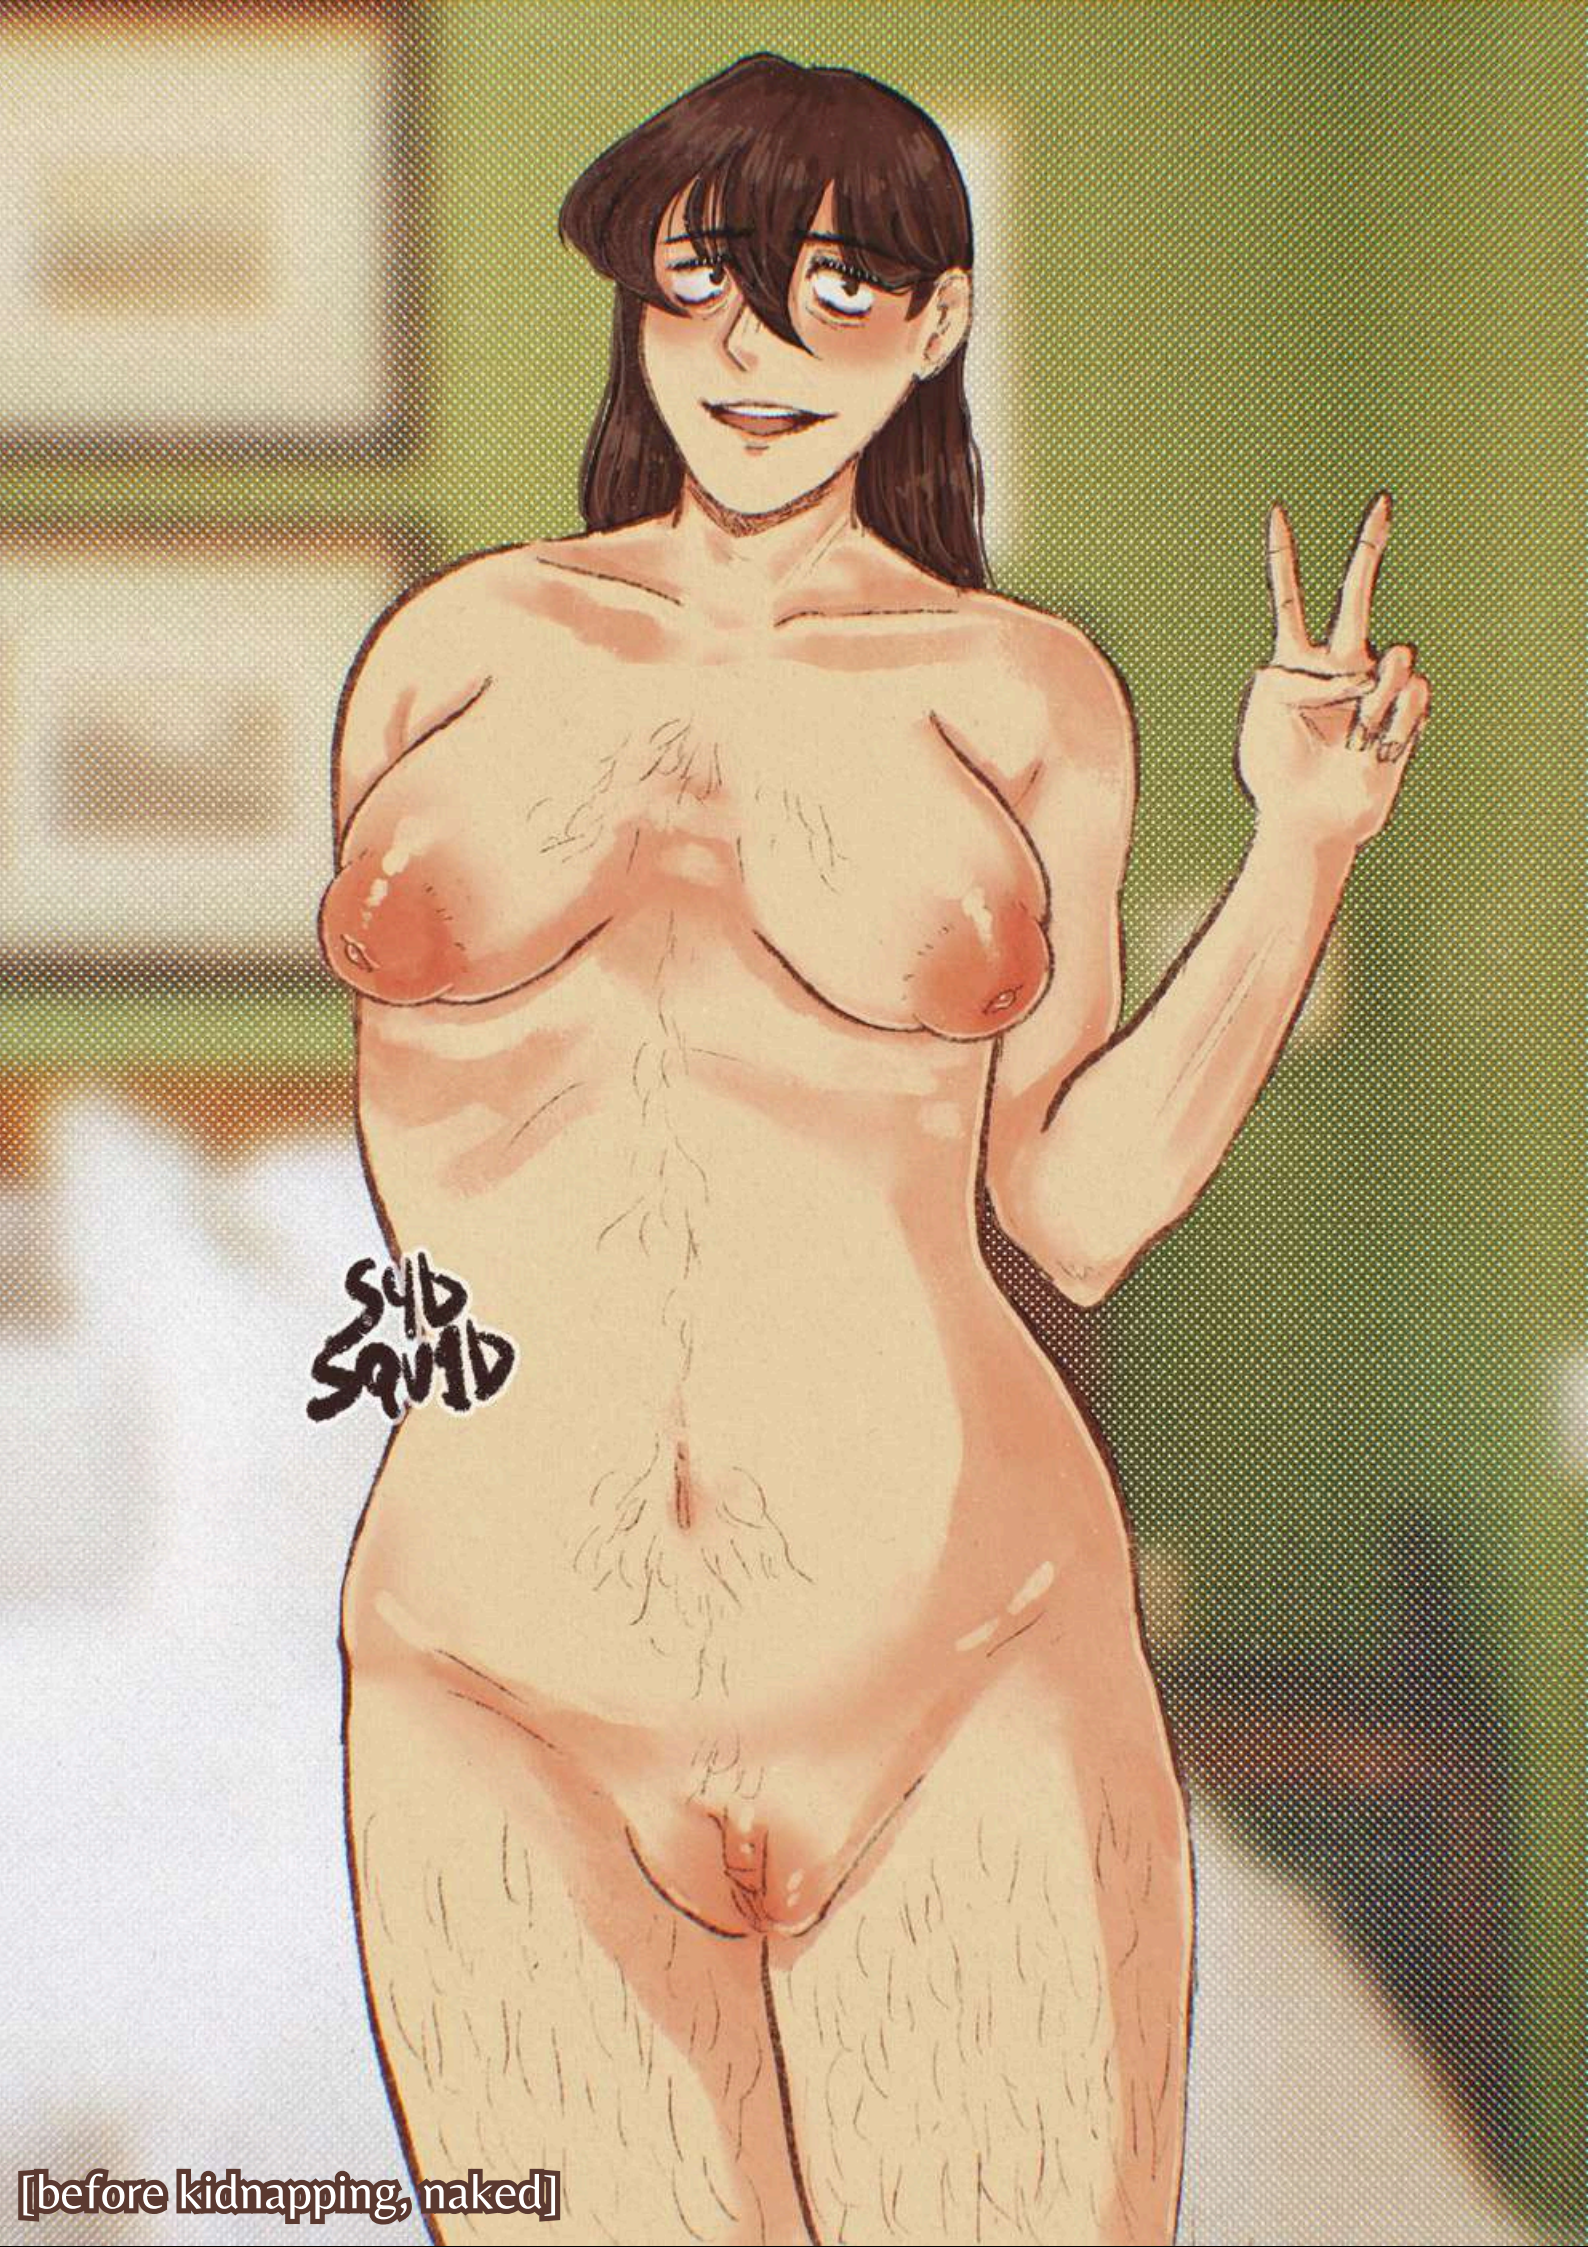

Eventually, he just learned to ignore them. Especially because he had finally gotten a manager and they were the ones deleting and blocking as needed, which also took a huge weight off his shoulders, as he wouldn't even need to read those if he didn't want to.

That isn't to say that the hateful comments and even mockery from some never got to him. It obviously did, but Sol also had a group of close friends who he could vent to and just being around them would make him feel better.

In fact, he probably would not have been brave enough to transition so publicly if it weren't for their support. If not for them, he might have stayed in the closet or just disappeared from public life to be his true self while avoiding dealing with the public.

Thankfully, he did have them!

It seemed that things were going extremely well for the young idol.

SYD
SAVID

[before kidnapping, naked]

Even after coming out, not much else changed in the way he presented himself, at least not at first. Soleil kept his name, just deciding to prioritize the shorter version from then on, as he really liked it and never caused him discomfort.

He still maintained (almost) the same wardrobe, just adding some more masculine clothes to the mix. Sol also stopped wearing skirts, but he intended it to be temporary, just until he felt comfortable in his body again.

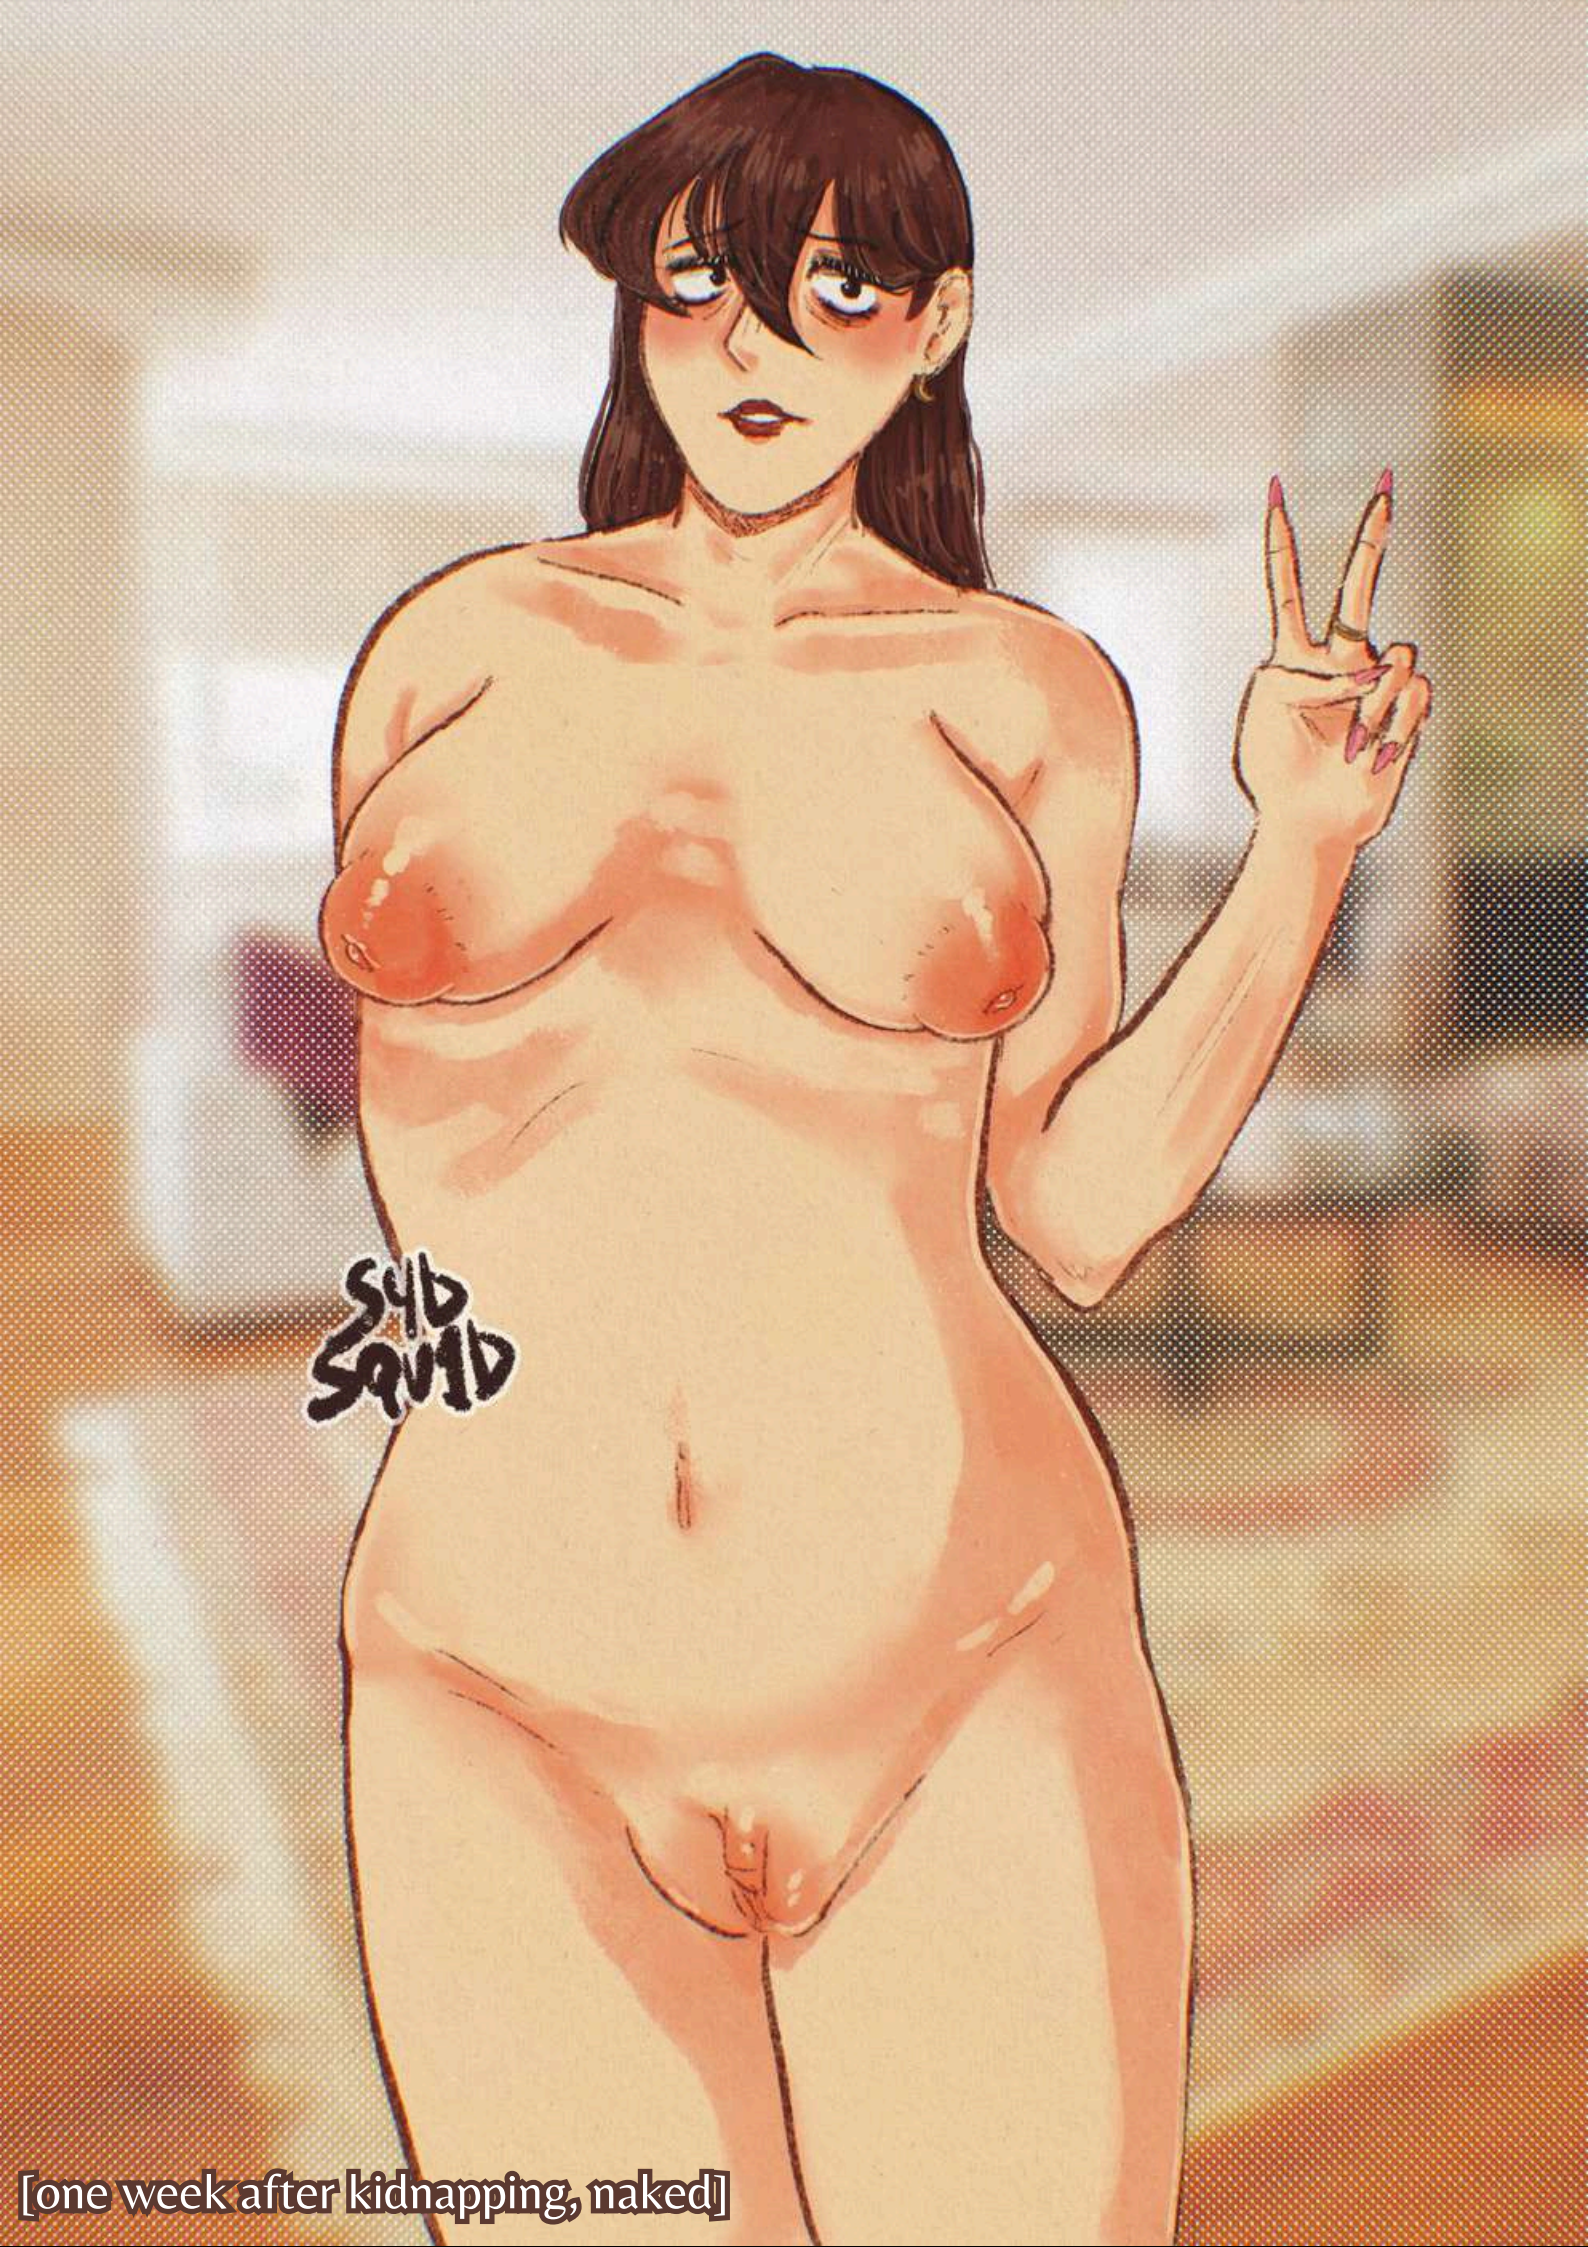

Although he initially tried HRT, he ultimately decided to stop it for the time being. His singing voice was too important at that moment and he couldn't afford to take a year long break (or even longer) just to wait for his voice to finish developing and then re-learn how to use it.

He didn't really lose any sleep over that though. His biggest source of dysphoria were his breasts anyway. He thought that as long as he could surgically remove them, waiting on HRT wouldn't bother him at all.

Thankfully, he had some money saved, which he used to pay for and schedule his surgery. It would be right after a set of live performances, so he could easily take a month off for recovery. And, if he ended up feeling better before the month ended, he could always go back to doing live streams earlier!

Well, there was also that and his extreme tokophobia but, as long as he didn't have sex with anyone, that was something he wouldn't have to worry about. Because of his fear, he had promised himself he would only ever do it after he got his uterus removed.

He knew it might be a while before that, but he decided he would rather "miss out" than risk ever getting pregnant. Although he never really tried to uphold a "pure virgin" image, it sure didn't hurt to have it remain intact for the time being, he was happy to let people think he cared about his "virtue" and wasn't just terrified of pregnancy.

SYD
SQUID

[one week after kidnapping, naked]

To the idol's dismay, he was kidnapped by an obsessive fan merely weeks before his surgery. To make matters worse, it turns out it was one of those awful, obsessive fans from before he ever came out, one who was not only a convicted and staunch conservative, but also rich and influential enough to know he would never be punished for his crimes.

He tied Sol up, stripped him naked and took his virginity, all while livestreaming for all who wanted to see. The kidnapper also encouraged people to record and reupload the video as much as possible. His goal with the stream was to completely ruin Sol's career while punishing him for both betraying his fans and "going against biology".

To make sure the idol would obey him, the kidnapper threatened to hurt Sol's family and friends should he not cooperate. It all culminated in Sol, under duress, announcing to the cameras that he deeply regretted trying to pretend to be male and that he would be retiring to marry that man and be his housewife.

Obviously, he really didn't want to do that, but he also really didn't want to risk the lives of those he cared for. It was clear that that man had both connections and money, if he was confident he could livestream himself raping someone and not be punished in any way, shape of form, it was obvious to Sol he could get away with even murder if he wanted.

All he could do was hope against hope that the people close to him would realise he had been forced to say those things and do something to rescue him. The police likely wouldn't help but there must be something they could do! Or at least he hoped so.

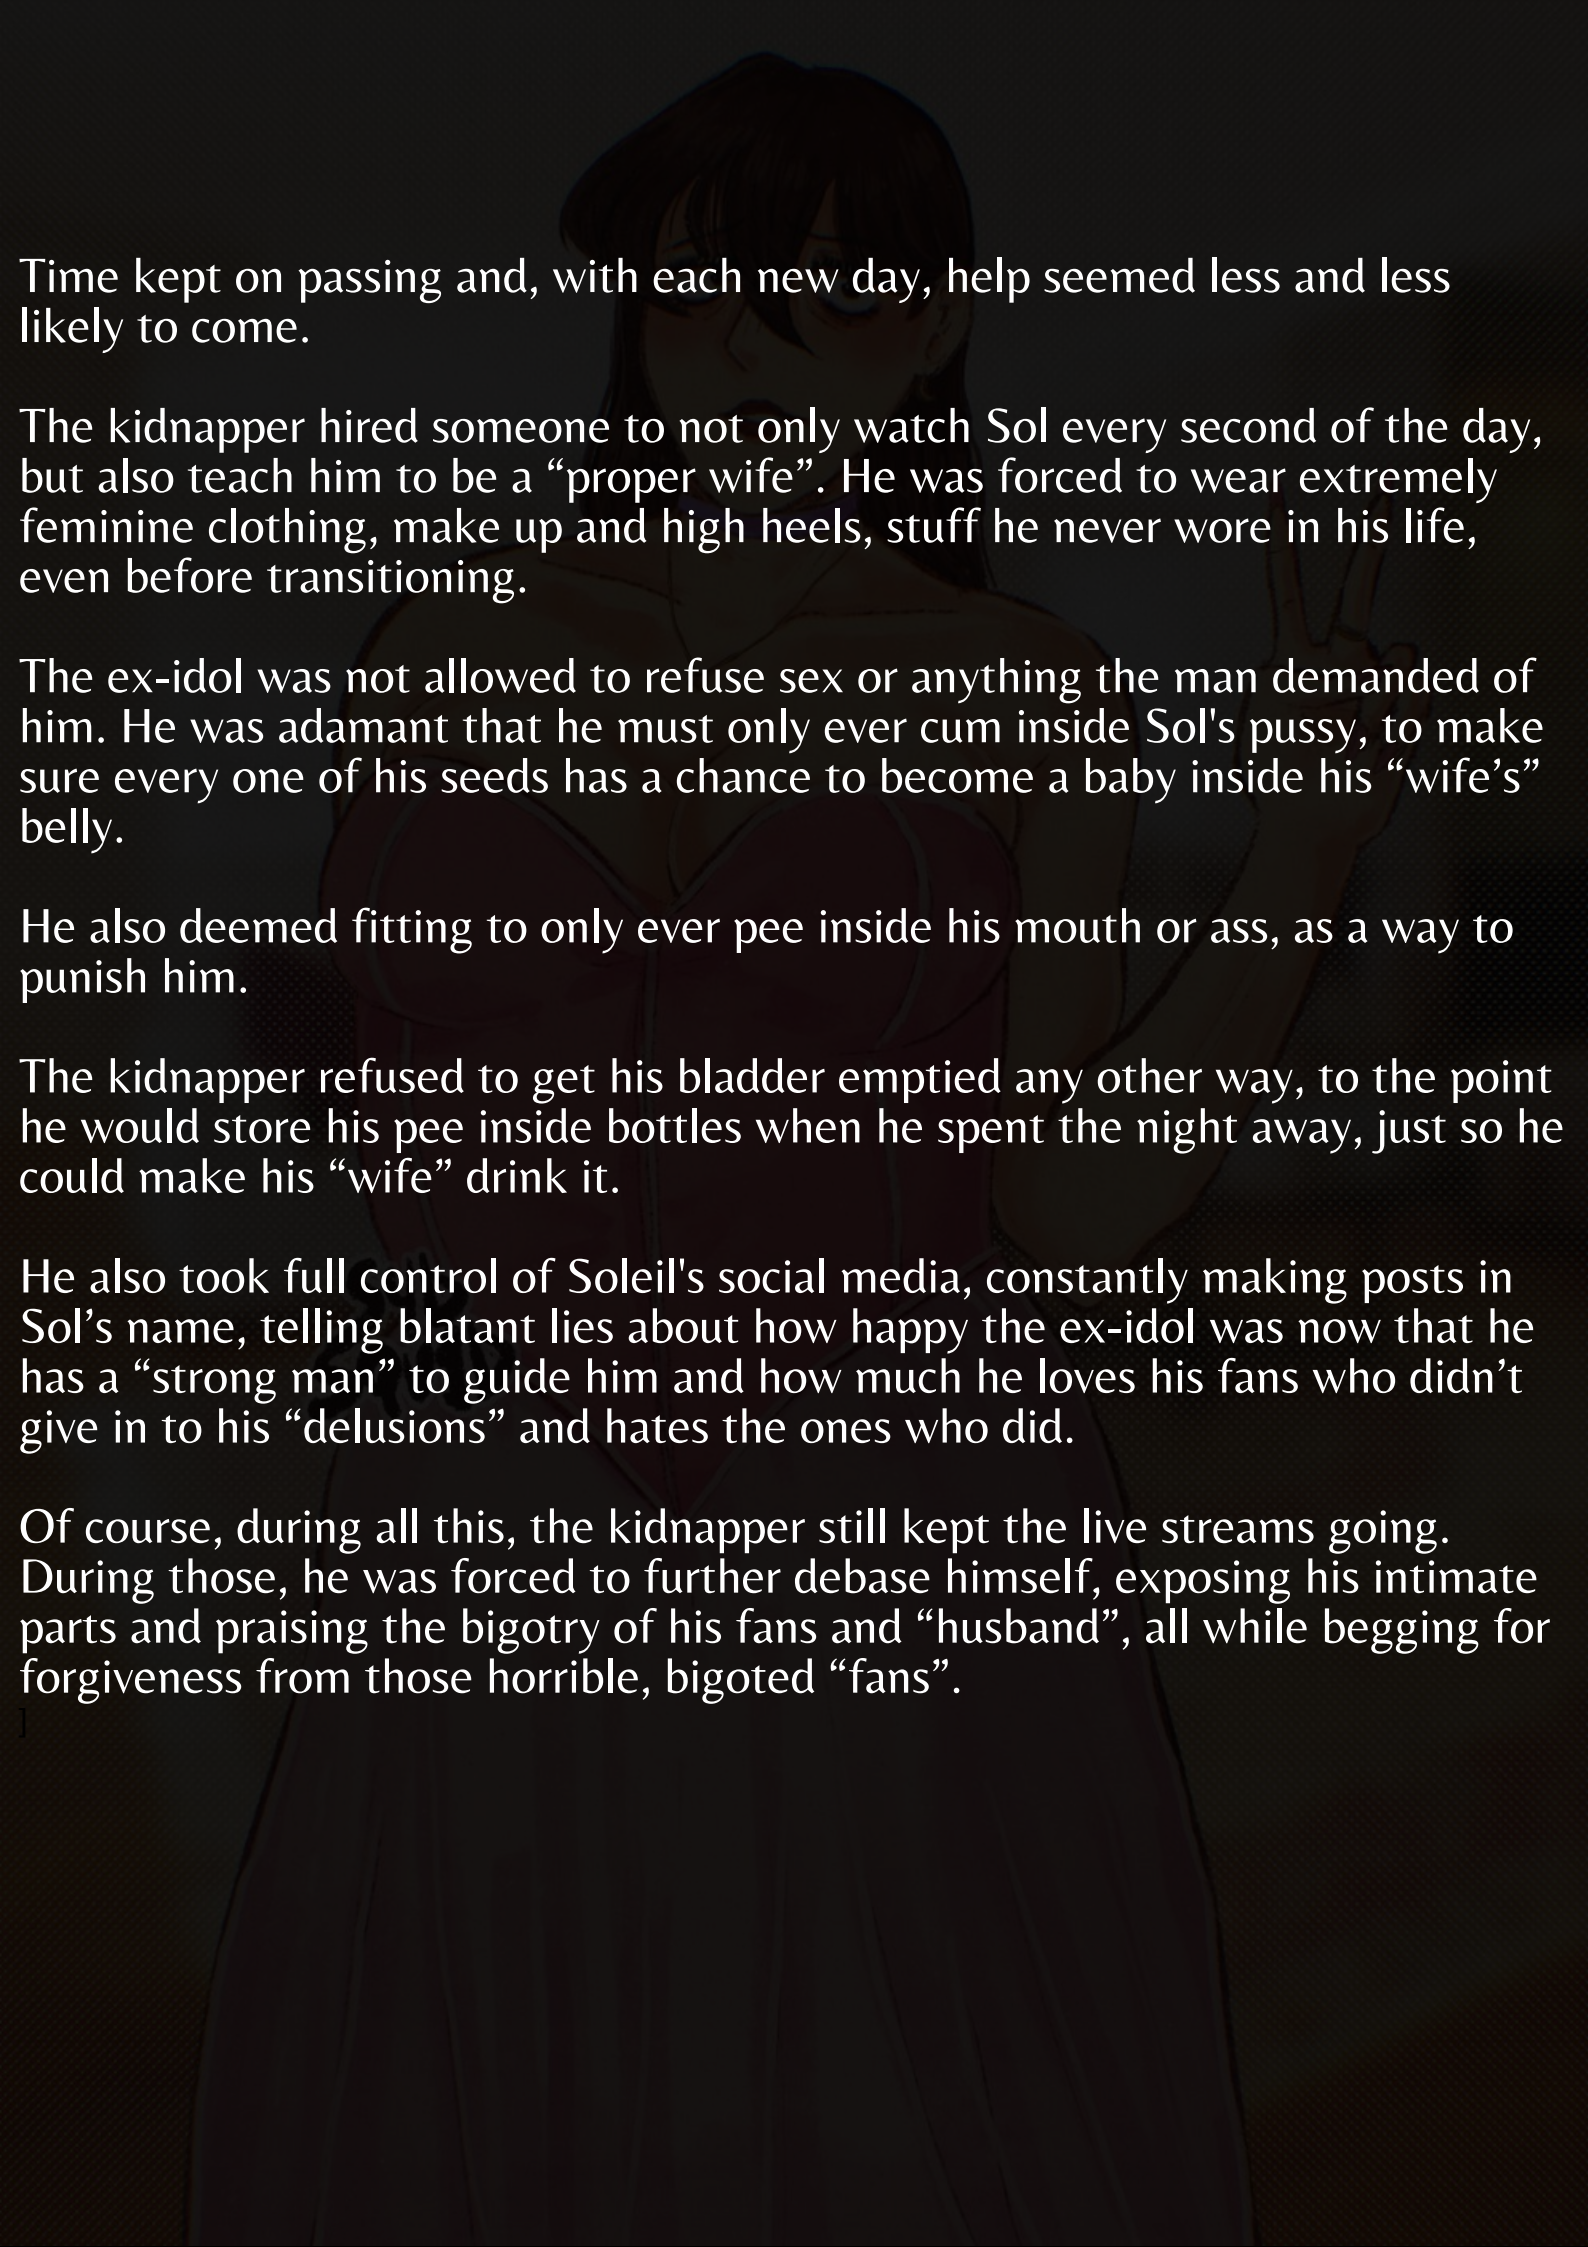

Preferably he wished he would be rescued before he actually got pregnant with that horrible man's child.

Little did he know his nightmare was just beginning.

SYD
SAVID

[1 week after kidnapping, everyday clothes]

Time kept on passing and, with each new day, help seemed less and less likely to come.

The kidnapper hired someone to not only watch Sol every second of the day, but also teach him to be a “proper wife”. He was forced to wear extremely feminine clothing, make up and high heels, stuff he never wore in his life, even before transitioning.

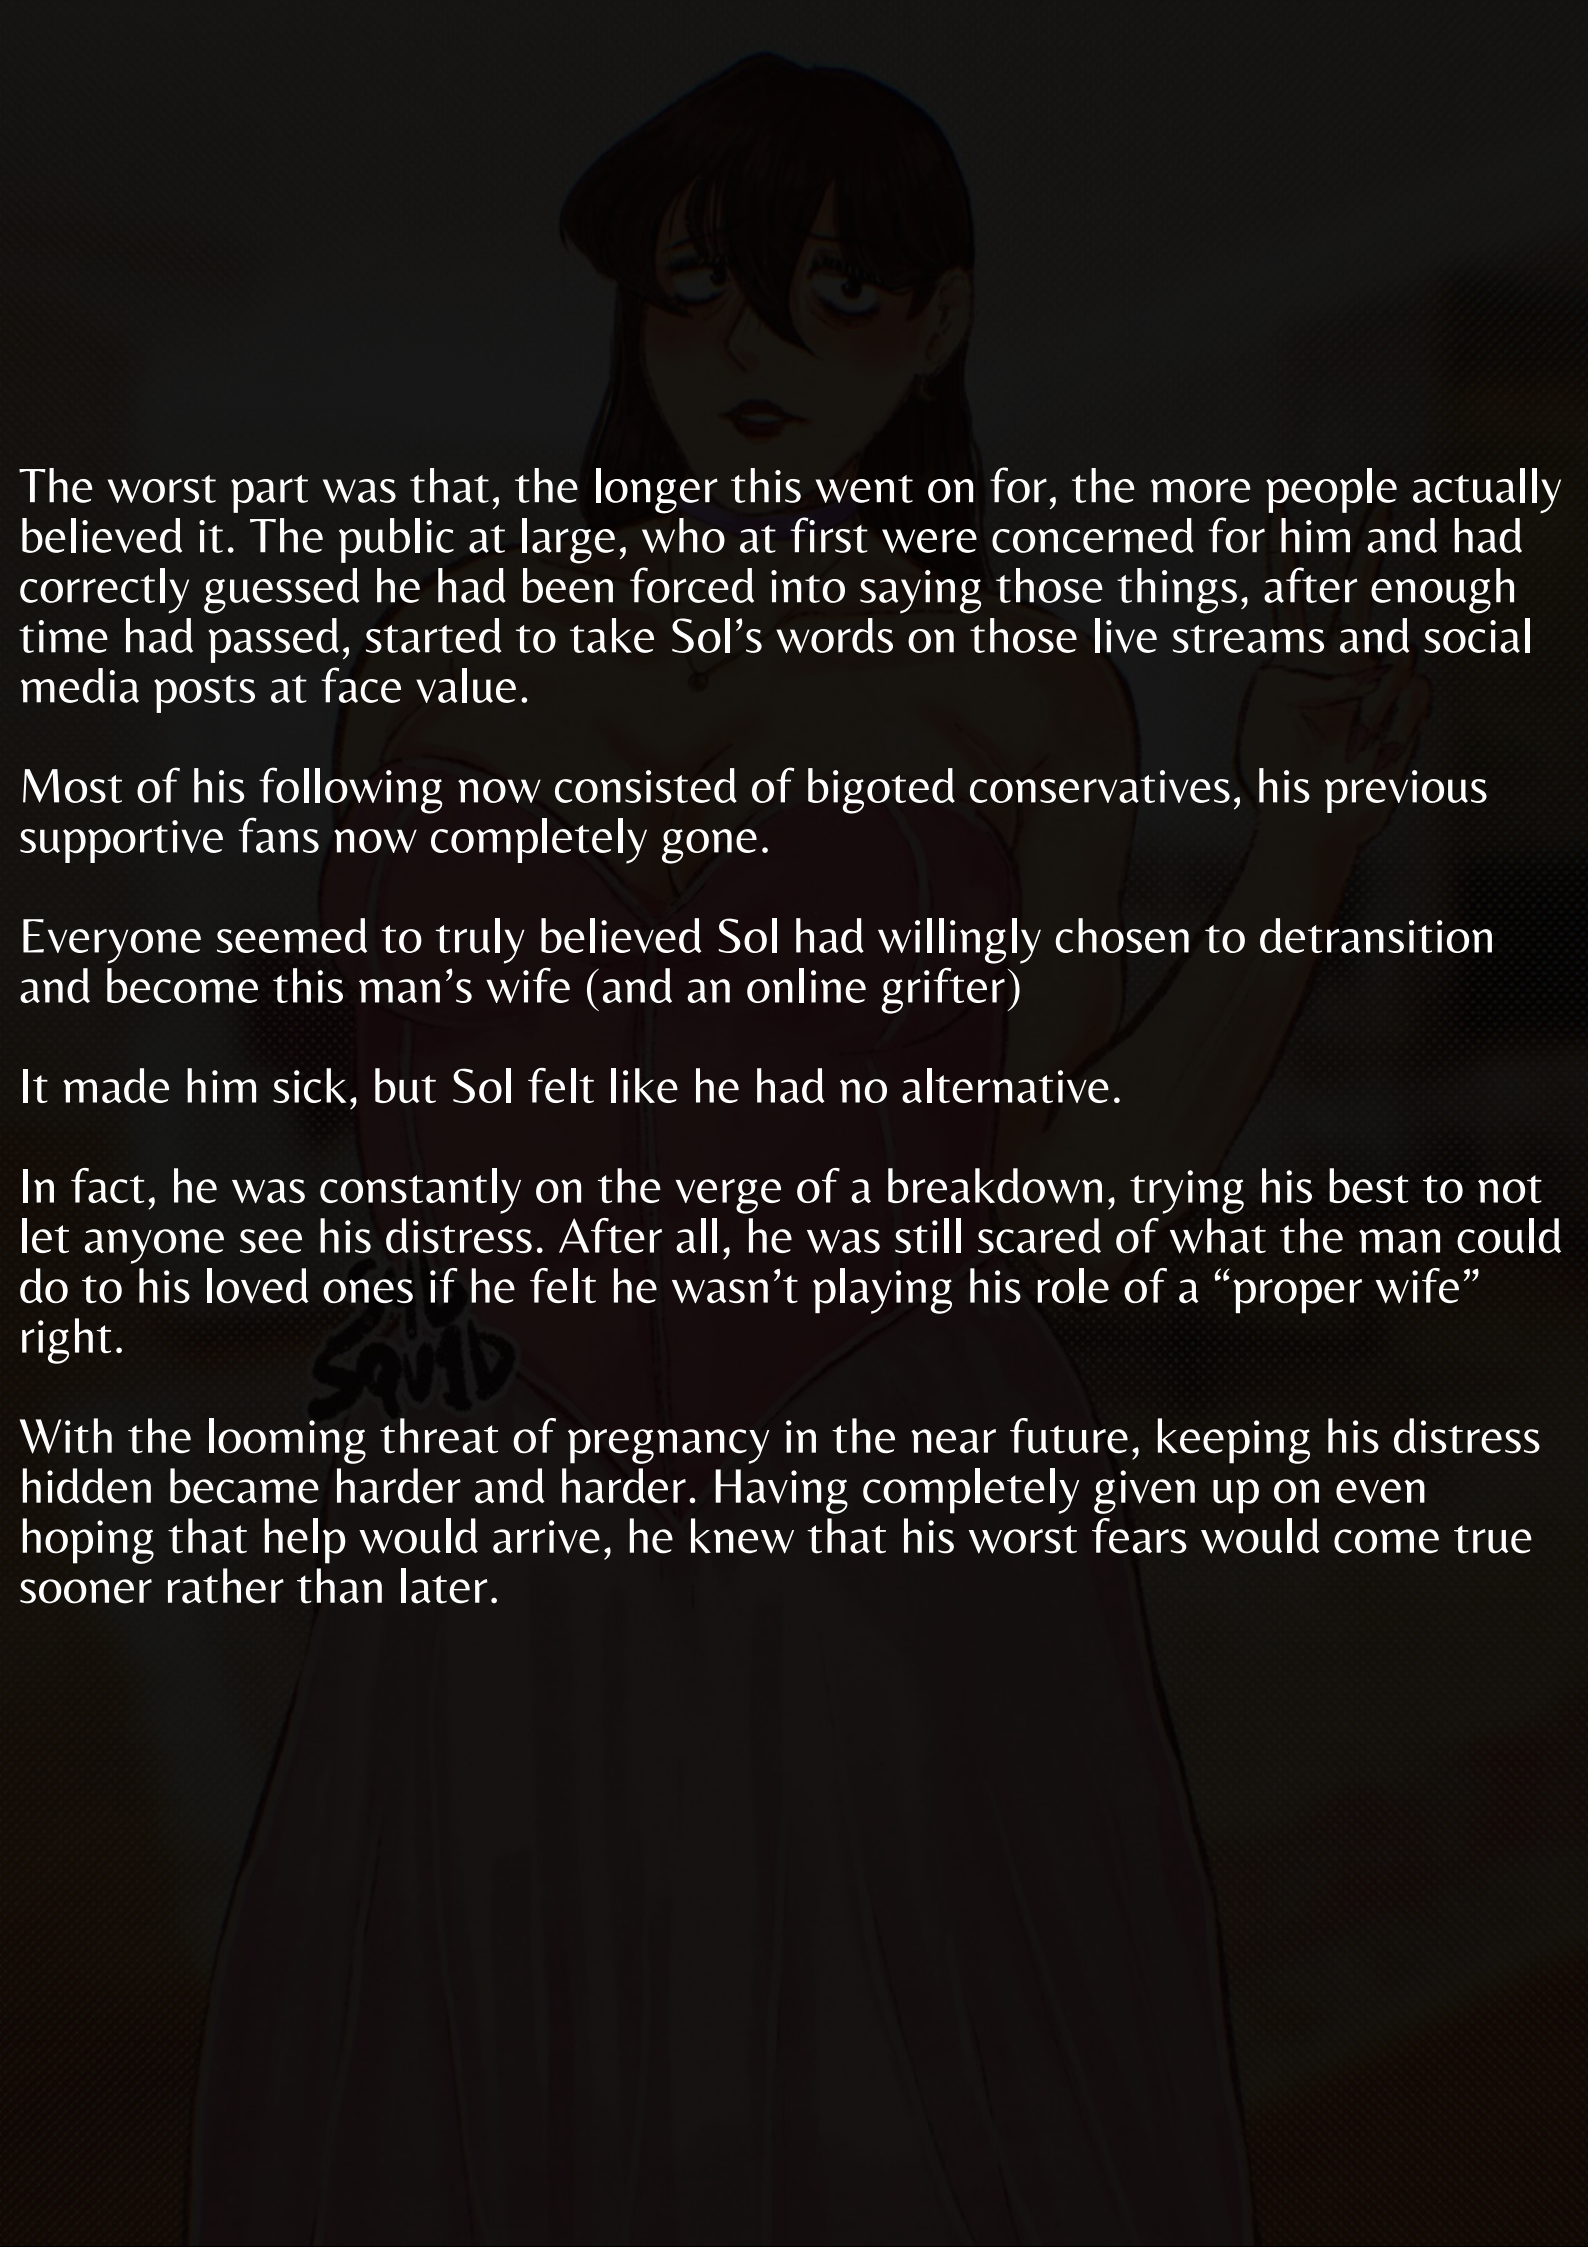

The ex-idol was not allowed to refuse sex or anything the man demanded of him. He was adamant that he must only ever cum inside Sol's pussy, to make sure every one of his seeds has a chance to become a baby inside his “wife’s” belly.

He also deemed fitting to only ever pee inside his mouth or ass, as a way to punish him.

The kidnapper refused to get his bladder emptied any other way, to the point he would store his pee inside bottles when he spent the night away, just so he could make his “wife” drink it.

He also took full control of Soleil's social media, constantly making posts in Sol’s name, telling blatant lies about how happy the ex-idol was now that he has a “strong man” to guide him and how much he loves his fans who didn’t give in to his “delusions” and hates the ones who did.

Of course, during all this, the kidnapper still kept the live streams going. During those, he was forced to further debase himself, exposing his intimate parts and praising the bigotry of his fans and “husband”, all while begging for forgiveness from those horrible, bigoted “fans”.

The worst part was that, the longer this went on for, the more people actually believed it. The public at large, who at first were concerned for him and had correctly guessed he had been forced into saying those things, after enough time had passed, started to take Sol's words on those live streams and social media posts at face value.

Most of his following now consisted of bigoted conservatives, his previous supportive fans now completely gone.

Everyone seemed to truly believed Sol had willingly chosen to detransition and become this man's wife (and an online grifter)

It made him sick, but Sol felt like he had no alternative.

In fact, he was constantly on the verge of a breakdown, trying his best to not let anyone see his distress. After all, he was still scared of what the man could do to his loved ones if he felt he wasn't playing his role of a "proper wife" right.

With the looming threat of pregnancy in the near future, keeping his distress hidden became harder and harder. Having completely given up on even hoping that help would arrive, he knew that his worst fears would come true sooner rather than later.

SYB SAVID

[8 months after kidhapping, naked]

As previously expected, the worst eventually happened. Just a couple months living with the kidnapper was enough to return a positive pregnancy test. The ex-idol was horrified, but even though he knew it was hopeless, he still made himself hope for a way out. If he got out soon enough, he thought, maybe he could get an abortion!

That was what he kept telling himself to keep him from completely breaking down.

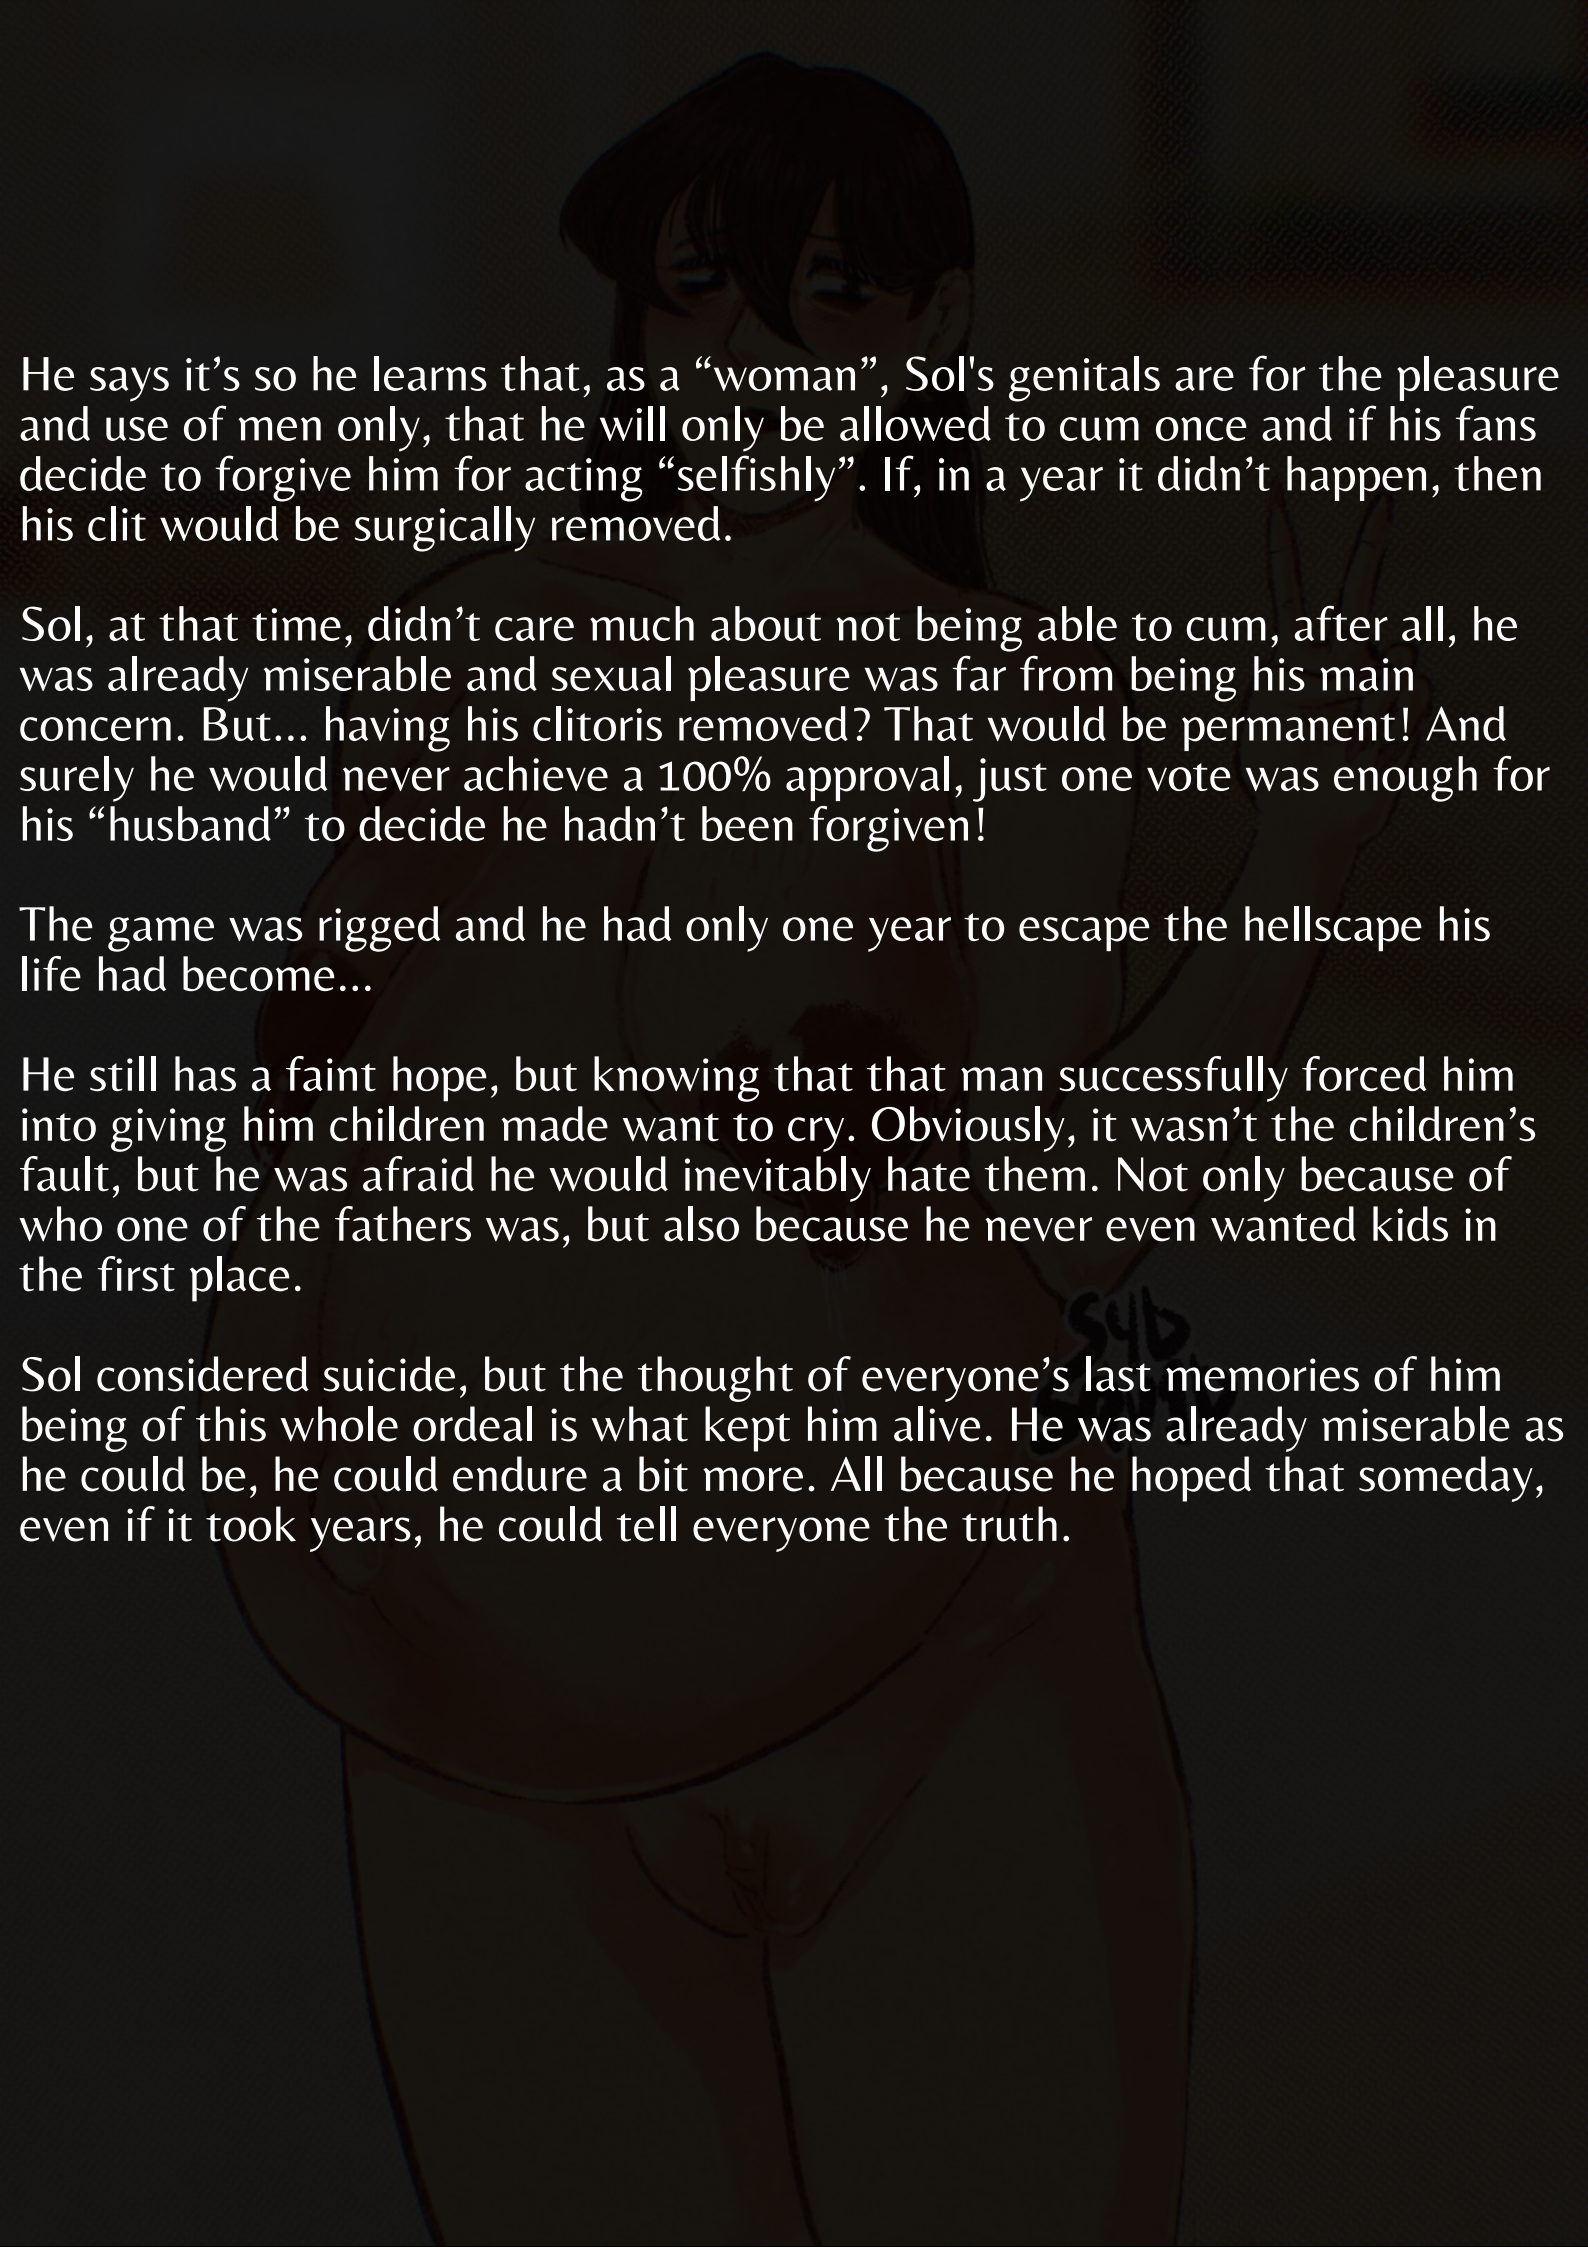

As his belly grew and grew, so did his desperation. He wanted nothing more than to make it stop. His breasts, which he already hated and thought were too big, started growing too. They became tender, his nipples darkened and the veins around them became even more visible. The kidnapper seemed oddly pleased with the sight, never taking his hands off of Sol's breasts when at home.

Every morning, during his shower, he'd have to quickly run to the toilet so he'd puke. One could easily have attributed it to morning sickness, which was, in all fairness, partly to blame, but in reality, it was just that seeing his body change in such a drastic way, completely against his will, made Sol really, really sick.

To make matters worse, an ultrasound revealed he was expecting twins. With how developed they already were, even if he was rescued at that very moment, he realized, there would be no escaping this situation. He would have to give birth to the kidnapper's children and probably raise them too.

All the while, that man still finds new ways to "punish" Soleil. It seemed like he got off to that type of thing but if asked directly he'd surely get angry and vehemently deny it. After all, he believes only degenerates have kinks and stuff like that. He isn't someone with a kink, he is just a "good man" disciplining his "wife", of course...!

Anyway, he now decided to put Sol in chastity and run a poll every month, asking Sol's "fans" if he should be allowed to cum or not. Of course, because he set up in a way that 100% of votes must be yes for him to get relief, this always ends up with sol continuously denied.

He says it's so he learns that, as a "woman", Sol's genitals are for the pleasure and use of men only, that he will only be allowed to cum once and if his fans decide to forgive him for acting "selfishly". If, in a year it didn't happen, then his clit would be surgically removed.

Sol, at that time, didn't care much about not being able to cum, after all, he was already miserable and sexual pleasure was far from being his main concern. But... having his clitoris removed? That would be permanent! And surely he would never achieve a 100% approval, just one vote was enough for his "husband" to decide he hadn't been forgiven!

The game was rigged and he had only one year to escape the hellscape his life had become...

He still has a faint hope, but knowing that that man successfully forced him into giving him children made want to cry. Obviously, it wasn't the children's fault, but he was afraid he would inevitably hate them. Not only because of who one of the fathers was, but also because he never even wanted kids in the first place.

Sol considered suicide, but the thought of everyone's last memories of him being of this whole ordeal is what kept him alive. He was already miserable as he could be, he could endure a bit more. All because he hoped that someday, even if it took years, he could tell everyone the truth.

SYB SAVID

[1 year after kidnapping, naked]

Soon after giving birth to the first set of twins, the kidnapper finally allowed him to meet with his family again.

That was when he found out that it all had been in vain.

His family had been in on it from the start. They never really accepted his transition and were willing to let this man do unspeakable things to him just to have their “girl” back.

Just before they got home, the kidnapper didn't hesitate to make it clear that if he ever disobeyed him, his friends, who probably hated him now, were still not off the hook. And that if he tried to run away, Sol would never see their kids again.

Enough time had passed that those threats barely phased him. Soleil just acted as expected, pretending to be offended that his “dear husband” would even think that he'd run away. For better or for worse, staying “in character” had become second nature to him.

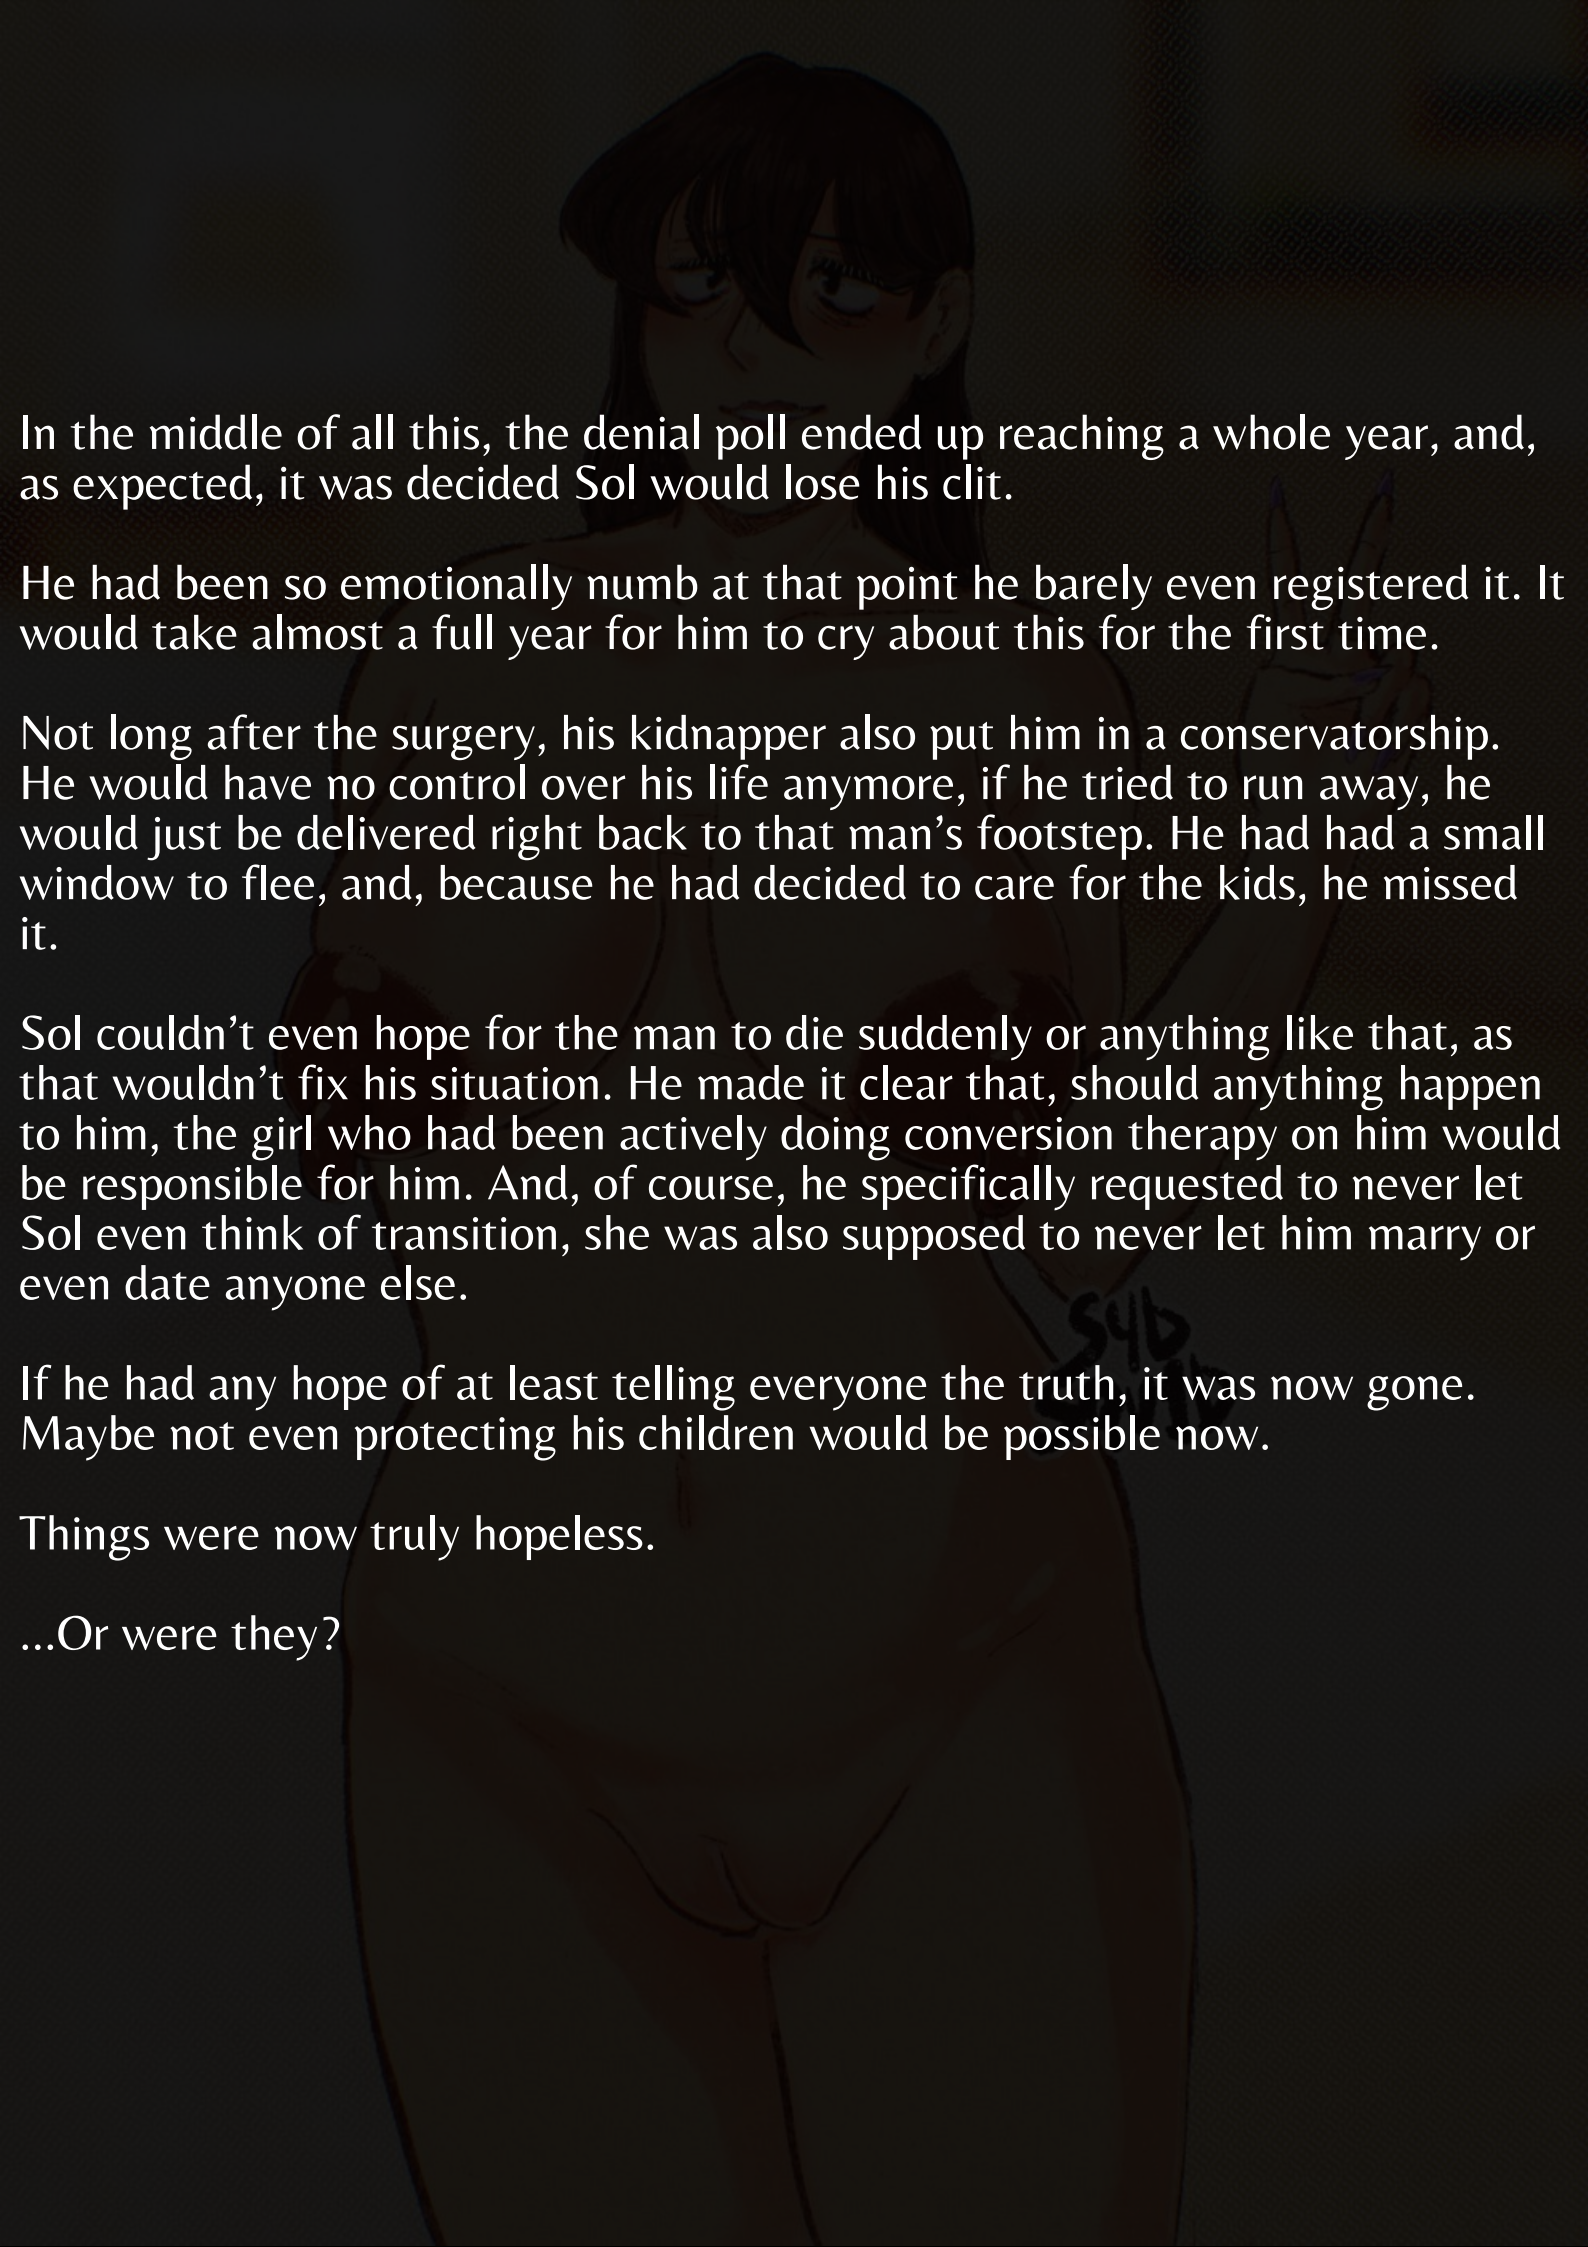

Sol had no option but to keep playing along, pretending all the attempted brainwashing and conversion therapy had worked. What option did he have? His career was ruined, his friends hated him and his family would gladly shove him back into the same pit of hell as before.

And there were the kids. It was true Sol never wanted kids, but considering how awful everything had been, being busy taking care of them made it easier not to think about everything else.

And of course, even though emotionally it was hard at first, rationally, he knew it was not their fault for being born. At least he could try and protect the kids a little bit from the monster that was the other parent.

Sure, he was a really good dad and was nothing but nice to them now, but what of when they grew up? What if they disagree with him, aren't straight or are trans themselves? He couldn't just leave it up to chance, not with a man like that.

Soleil had accepted he had no choice but stay miserable, but he would try to make the kids' life as happy as he could. Or... less horrible as he could. He wasn't sure how effective could be at defending them when needed but surely it would be better than abandoning them.

In the middle of all this, the denial poll ended up reaching a whole year, and, as expected, it was decided Sol would lose his clit.

He had been so emotionally numb at that point he barely even registered it. It would take almost a full year for him to cry about this for the first time.

Not long after the surgery, his kidnapper also put him in a conservatorship. He would have no control over his life anymore, if he tried to run away, he would just be delivered right back to that man's footsteps. He had had a small window to flee, and, because he had decided to care for the kids, he missed it.

Sol couldn't even hope for the man to die suddenly or anything like that, as that wouldn't fix his situation. He made it clear that, should anything happen to him, the girl who had been actively doing conversion therapy on him would be responsible for him. And, of course, he specifically requested to never let Sol even think of transition, she was also supposed to never let him marry or even date anyone else.

If he had any hope of at least telling everyone the truth, it was now gone. Maybe not even protecting his children would be possible now.

Things were now truly hopeless.

...Or were they?

THANK YOU FOR READING!

Author's note:

tbh this is mostly just a recap of the story so far. I really wanted to revisit some plot points again and decided that this was a good way to do it but maybe I was wrong?

Anyway, there is some new info sprinkled throughout and a bit of how Sol's mind works as well.

This was mostly self indulgent, but I hope you can get something out of it too.

Next idol au set will hopefully move the plot or develop characters a bit more than this one LOL more on

s4dsquid's website

squid.moe/s4dsquid

social media

TWITTER: @s4dsquid666 | BARAAG: @s4dsquid | BSKY: @s4dsquid